

WHAT'S BOAT RACE CAMAGORI?

Gamagori-a popular tourist destination where you can enjoy the speed and power of BOAT RACE

BOAT RACE Gamagori is one of the few BOAT RACE locations in Japan to host night races.

Brightly lit boats rush across the surface of the water as the sunset moves into night.

Full-out racing, weaving ultimate speed and technique against a sparkling night scene and the roar of the motors, takes spectators to an extraordinary world.

What is BOAT RACE?

BOAT RACE is an aquatic sport unique to Japan. As the water sprays from their six boats, the racers battle using speed and technique. Start position and timing are key to success, and this is what captivates the spectators. Before the race, there is an "exhibition run" that allows spectators to enjoy observing the condition of racers and boats and make predictions.

A battle of speed and technique

The race is decided in a matter of seconds.

BOAT RACE is a combat sport fought on the water.

The racers need to finely tune all of their senses from the very start—their success is decided by tenths of a second on the turns and by the racers' tactics.

Spectators cannot help but gasp as they watch the battles play out before them amid the spray.

The roar of the motors

Listen to the sound of the engines echoing through the darkness as the gleaming boats glide across the water. Let's experience a battle of speed and technique that can only be seen at night.

Tips on watching the races

Pay attention to the start dash!

The start timing is a tough competition hinging on tenths of a second. The excitement comes from watching the six boats race as the tension rises.

Battle to the first turn mark

The real thrill of BOAT RACE lies in the battle between boats as they race from the start to the first turn. Their success depends on which boat wins an advantageous position and breaks into the lead out of the first turn.
